Mr. and Mrs. Ben De M. Miller have as their guest Mr. Kent Savage, of Norfolk, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. S. Griswold, of New York, will spend the winter in Washington.

Mrs. Edward Anderson, of Rockville, Md., has taken an apartment at the Chalfonte for the winter, and will have her daughter, Miss Thompson, and her son, Edward Anderson, Jr., with her.

Miss Teresa Penkert will spend the week in Baltimore with friends.

Miss Jessie Willis, daughter of Capt. A. B. Willis, U. S. N., is spending the week-end in Washington, where she came for the wedding of Miss White and Lieut. Irwin. She is the house guest of Paymaster D. C. Crowell, U. S. N., and Mrs. Crowell at the Cairo.

The dates for the introduction of the season's buds are slow in being announced. One of the first dates to be set is the tea to be given by Mrs. Odell S. Smith to present her young daughter, Ida Norment Smith, on Wednesday afternoon, November 23, at the nineteenth street home. Mrs. Smith will give a dance for her daughter at Rauscher's later in the season. Mrs. Smith and her attractive daughter spent last winter in Florida, and the early summer at Asbury Park, where Miss Smith was an acknowledged belle. The late summer and early autumn they spent in Europe. Miss Smith is a granddaughter of the late Mr. Samuel P. Norment, one of Washington's most prominent and wealthy residents.

Mrs. Larner will present her debutante daughter, Ruth, to society at a tea on Thursday, December 1. They have recently returned from Europe.

Miss Marie Ray, an attractive Georgetown bud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ray, will make her debut early in December at a tea in her parents' home, in Thirty-first street. She has recently returned from Atlantic City, after spending a year in Europe with her aunt, Miss Colbert, finishing her education. She is a pianist of more than ordinary ability, and a linguist of pronounced brilliancy. Miss Ray is a beauty of the Titian type.

Miss Doris Heywood, who had selected Thanksgiving Day for her debut tea, has postponed that function to some time in December.

Mr. William Edward Thompson, who has been spending the summer and early fall in the mountains of Massachusetts, is at the Marlborough-Blenheim, Atlantic City, for a short visit before returning to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bennett, of Corral, Panama, and Miss Mary Godfrey, of Empire, Panama, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, at 942 Westchester street, New York.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Continental Chapter, D. A. R., held its first meeting of the season in Continental Hall, Monday, October 17. A pleasant hour was spent in amusing stories told of summer vacations, after which a short business session was held. Mrs. C. David White gave an interesting talk on the work of the Southern Industrial Educational Association, of which she is the recording secretary. Committees were appointed and plans discussed for the coming year.

Miss Marion McFall has arranged an attractive programme for next Friday evening in First Baptist Church. She will be assisted by the Hebrew Orchestra, Howard Butterworth, Mrs. James Kerr, and Mrs. Edmund Barry, who will play accompaniments.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH A. SHAW, The latter formerly Miss Rose Stella Johnson.

MORNING CHIT-CHAT.

"WHAT! dull, when you do not know what gives its loveliness of form to the lily, its depth of color to the violet, its fragrance to the rose; when you do not know in what consists the venom of the adder any more than you can imitate the glad movements of the dove. What! dull, when earth, air, and water are all alike mysteries to you, and when as you stretch out your hand you do not touch anything the properties of which you have mastered, while all the time nature is inviting you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her, and to be blessed by her! Go away, man; learn something, understand something; do something, and let me hear no more of your dullness!"—Sir Arthur Helps.

I was reminded of that quotation the other day when, while waiting in an intelligence office to interview a prospective maid, I drifted into conversation with the woman beside me.

She was a fine looking woman, evidently about sixty, if you judged from her casual mention of married children, and numerous grandchildren, but not a day over fifty if you judged from her fresh, cheerful appearance and her alert manner.

The thing that impressed me about her and reminded me of the quotation was what she said when I asked her if she had been waiting long. She consulted her watch, and appeared surprised.

"Why, it's about an hour," she said, "but it doesn't seem half so long. Most of my friends think that hunting up a maid is the worst bore in the world, but do you know, if I'm not too busy, I actually enjoy sitting in an intelligence office. It's so interesting to study the people who come in. Why, it's really as good as a matinee to me."

At ninety, if she lives—and I hope she does, for the world needs more like her—that woman will be happy, and still a good companion, both for herself and other people.

Sir Arthur says there are so many tantalizing, defiant mysteries, so many invitations to thought and speculation in nature, that no one has a right to be dull.

Seems to me there are even more delightful mysteries, even more alluring invitations to thought and speculation in the world of men and women about one.

The reason that woman looked fifty instead of sixty was undoubtedly because she had accepted those invitations and had been too busy and too interested to grow old.

An intelligence office, a trolley car, a shop, a hotel lobby, a business office—all these can be as absorbing as a drama or as tedious as a dictionary.

It just depends on you. Which will you have them?

RUTH CAMERON.

HEART and HOME TALKS by Barbara Boyd

In democratic America we feel something of scorn for the aristocrat. According to the individual point of view, we define him as "half-alive," "putting on airs," or "considering himself superior to other people." But isn't this a rather superficial definition of an aristocrat? Wouldn't we gain something extremely useful to ourselves if we would look a little more deeply into this old-world term and take into our lives its true meaning? Somewhere is the phrase, "An aristocrat, exquisite in everyday life," can't you imagine the delight of living in such a home?

"Exquisite in everyday life." What does that mean?

For one thing, it means that the women of the family would not go around in frowsy negligees, with hair carelessly combed or shoes run down at the heel. If a negligee were worn, it would be fresh as the morning. To the very smallest and most insignificant detail of the toilet, being exquisite in everyday life, would mean being exquisitely dainty. If every feminine member of the family were at all times, wouldn't it work a transformation in many a home?

What would "being exquisite in everyday life" mean for the head of the family? It wouldn't mean he is to be a dandy.

CATHOLIC WOMEN MEET.

Mrs. Margaret L. Coope Tells of Trip to Europe.

The Catholic Women's Circle held its first meeting for the season last Monday at headquarters, 1015 Eleventh street northwest. Mrs. Margaret L. Coope addressed the "Madonna" and "Trinity" classes of the circle, giving an account of her trip abroad.

Mrs. Coope announced that during the coming sessions of the classes she would give a detailed account of the famous cathedrals visited at Naples, Genoa, Pisa, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, Cologne, Paris, and London, together with the "Great Art Galleries"—the Louvre, Luxembourg, National, Tate, and the Wallace collection, each of which will be the subject of further study during the year in connection with books from the Public Library of the various writers giving the best Catholic interpretation of the art and architecture.

The evening closed with a general conversation relating to the Eucharistic Congress at Montreal and the Catholic conference events of the week.

Another Goose Festival Planned.

A frieze of geese is announced as one of the attractions at the "Mother Goose" festival with which the Universalist Church will open its fair in the old Masonic Temple on Monday evening, October 24. The fair will continue four nights, with noon lunches.

Some very attractive dark toned fall gingham and sateen have been brought out to meet the requirements of winter indoor wear.
